

The Power of the Ring

Civilization has always been fascinated with gold. Generations of jewelers have developed gold alloys from secret elements in order to produce the rich color and quality of the gold they desired. Gold was surrounded by many stories of wealth and power, but people never focused on the health properties of gold.

Victor Dymant has changed the focus. After intense research and development he has created a new and exclusive gold alloy that we believe has a direct relation with health. The creation and application of this special alloy opens new directions and opportunities for people interested in being healthier and to enable the medical community to overcome many chronic conditions and diseases.

Pure gold does not have a positive influence on the body. The positive or negative influence of gold on health depends on the properties and percentage of other elements added to the alloy. The additional elements possess certain features, which change the frequency parameter of the pure gold.

After extensively analyzing human reactions to gold-based alloys, we believe that this new alloy stimulates Health Frequency® by triggering correct biochemical reactions in cells at the point of application and gradually restores circulation in these areas. The use of this alloy can support intercellular activity, help activate restoration of the damaged cellular structures, stimulate and normalize circulation processes of metabolism and help restore the muscles and connective tissues. It can also help minimize the negative influence of electromagnetic frequencies radiating from composite cements.

This gold alloy can effectively be used to help restoration of the cardio vascular system, destruction due to MS, Parkinson's, Scleroderma, damage to the kidneys, liver and thyroid gland, increase blood circulation in the arms and legs helping diabetic problems. It can also help restore mobility in the joints by reducing pain and can help correct the work of the immune system, along with many other conditions and diseases.

SEX

Sex is an important part of human life. Loss of sexual inclination depends on many reasons. A principal reason for this lack of potential is low frequencies which cause intercellular changes in various parts of the body, creating premature biochemical, hormonal and physical changes. This, in turn causes a reduction of sexual functions and blood circulation in erogenous areas leading to weakness or atrophy.

The consequences of such changes in men lead to an increase of prostate problems, difficulty in urination, changes in the bladder, even development of cancer, etc. Women can have changes such as cystitis, incontinence, uterine complications, various tumor processes, etc.

Frequently this problem leads to the disintegration of many relationships, family interaction and divorce.

Medicine tries to solve this problem in many ways without consideration of what we consider a principal cause: negative changes occurring under the influence of low frequencies. These frequencies collect in bones and muscles gradually changing the biochemical features of cells. This can affect elasticity and lessen the efficiency of muscles and blood vessels, having an influence on the speed and force of receipt of blood in various organs and areas of the body. Often, partners can feel negative changes in health, influencing sexual attraction and desires.

We developed a gold alloy composed of gold, platinum and other special elements possessing a unique feature, which enables the body to accept Health Frequency emanating from the Power Ring and other Power products. We believe that it speeds up blood circulation and promotes Health Frequency® saturation in necessary areas, improving biochemical and regenerative processes in the body.

The unique abilities of this Health Frequency® alloy to trigger correct intercellular reaction and rush of blood to weakened or atrophied areas in the body can help start many regenerative processes.

The different designs of jewelry and treatment objects can be used to target various areas of the body and bring them into the optimal health parameters for Health Frequency®, effectively helping the body fight many conditions and diseases. By moving the objects to affected areas, the healing processes can start wherever needed. These products can help extend an active and healthy longevity of life by slowing the aging process.

ALLERGIES

Many people experience seasonal allergy attacks from pollens, dust, food, etc. making life miserable for those suffering with them. Health Frequency® helps explain the reason for many allergies. The provoking allergens block metabolic processes in different areas of the body, causing abnormal changes and biochemical intercellular reactions to these incoming substances.

This becomes the starting point for a development of a stagnation process. The immune system cannot effectively take care of these processes by itself. To help the body more effectively achieve it's fight with allergies, we have developed a special alloy of gold, platinum and other elements, creating Health Frequency® which forces blood circulation past these areas. These frequencies directly access and pass through biochemical and electromagnetic blockage in the body, saturating the cells with the correct amount of Health Frequency, and effectively helping the body fight against many allergies.

The Health Frequency® theory introduces a new direction for people to follow in order to achieve a healthy life style. The Health Frequency® gold alloy creates the opportunity for many people to achieve successful restorative processes and fulfill their dream of good health.

This new gold alloy is Patent Pending
